18 The upper part of the atrium. Light diffuses through slates of glass.
Detail of walkway at upper level.

19 Ameen Kiefer’s towering, dedicated gallery.

20 A non-traditional, orthogonal ensemble of galleries on the first and second floors, with sculptures by Brancusi.

21 The largest gallery on the ground level’s lower wing. The huge, inscrutable screen provides opportunities for collaboration between artists. Specific works such Richard Serra’s monumental “Rooster”, now chosen places of resting steel.
